

WORRIED ABOUT E-DISCOVERY? (Should You Be?)

ARMSTRONG TEASDALE LLP
FEBRUARY 2007

ARMSTRONG TEASDALE CAN HELP

The firm's E-Discovery Team brings together a unique blend of disciplines to provide robust, 3-dimensional solutions to our client's Electronic Discovery and Electronic Data Retention issues.

In 2002, we formed one of the region's first E-Discovery teams, bringing a talented group of technology-proficient attorneys together to tackle and master the many challenges of E-Discovery/E-Retention.

Dan Nelson leads the E-Discovery team and has been teaching E-Discovery/E-Retention topics for several years, both regionally and nationally.

Armstrong Teasdale's subsidiary, Lawgical Choice, has been doing the "IT side" of E-Discovery for over four years, and has worked on over 50 engagements. Lawgical Choice's work includes forensically-sound data identification and collection, data management and data review.

John Cowling is President of Lawgical Choice and also serves as a full-time partner at Armstrong Teasdale. He brings a unique blend of legal knowledge and technical skill based upon years of work on a variety of E-Discovery projects.

The firm's clients pick from a wide variety of E-Discovery/E-Retention services, blended in each case to suit the client's objectives and needs. The areas in which we can provide practical and experienced counseling and service include:

- Advice and counseling regarding reasonable and efficient E-Discovery planning, including construction and implementation of "pre-need" SOP's and response protocols
- E-Discovery training appropriately tailored to all levels of corporate management
- Devising or revising Record Retention Policies
- Serving as "outside in-house counsel" on E-Discovery matters
- Email and E-data best practices training
- Case-specific E-Discovery advice
- IT staff training on forensically appropriate preservation and collection protocols
- Forensically sound data collection and/or data analysis*
- Forensic hard drive review*
