Jim Heinen, Jr., leads Armstrong Teasdale's Intellectual Property practice group, which consists of more than 100 multitalented lawyers and staff professionals, many of whom hold advanced scientific degrees and are experienced in all facets of IP law including patent preparation, prosecution and litigation. In his legal practice, Jim focuses on the preparation and prosecution of U.S. and foreign patent applications for those in a broad range of diverse technologies.

Licensed to practice before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, Jim also has extensive experience in all facets of patent matters, not only in the preparation and prosecution of applications but also in opinion-related work, including freedom-to-operate, patentability, state-of-the-art searching and white space analysis. His experience also includes post grant proceedings, including inter partes reviews, validity assessments, foreign oppositions and patent term analysis comprising the calculation of term adjustments and expiration dates. His client list includes large corporations, emerging and startup companies, and individual inventors. Jim also supports numerous universities, both public and private, and tech-transfer offices on their patent portfolios.

Jim's experience involves a variety of subject matters spanning a broad range of chemical and biochemical technologies, such as pharmaceuticals, small molecule design, trace detection systems, nanotechnologies, medical devices, cardiology and vascular access products, herbicides, pesticides, fungicides, rice breeding technology, polymeric materials, skin science and technology, personal care articles and formulations, electrochemical cells, pediatric and adult nutritionals, microencapsulation, semiconductor materials, creative packaging solutions, bottle/container/closure technology and design.

Active in firm management, Jim is a member of Armstrong Teasdale's Hiring Committee. In addition, he served as leader of the firm's Higher Education industry team, and leader of the Patent Agent/Engineer subgroup, overseeing the hiring, training and development of patent agents and patent engineers/scientists.
