Kelly Guliano is a legal project manager in Armstrong Teasdale's Intellectual Property practice group with two decades of legal, docketing and project management experience.

Adept at all stages of project management, Kelly develops efficient workflow processes, compiles and maintains specialized reports, and supports attorneys and clients across organizations. She manages all aspects of IP file acquisitions and analyzes ownership records for IP portfolios, identifying discrepancies and recommending courses of action.

Kelly also serves as IP team lead, providing mentorship and oversight to the IP group's team of legal assistants.

BACKGROUND

Prior to joining Armstrong Teasdale, Kelly was a paralegal and docket coordinator at another St. Louis law firm.
